Call for Papers: Intercollegiate Conference of English Literary and Linguistic Media and Communication (ICELLMC)

Organizer: Shih-Hsin University

Host institution: Department of English and Applied Communication,

Conference Date: May 4, 2024

Conference Venue: She-Wo Building S1204 Conference Room

The Intercollegiate Conference of English Literary and Linguistic Media and Communication is a peer-reviewed intercollegiate conference dedicated to theory and practice of English literature and linguistics in light of new trends of media and communication. It aims to integrate English studies, communication studies, and multimedia practice of the time through creating a platform for discussion, interaction, and collaboration between and among interdisciplinary scholars, in hope of teasing out academic possibilities in cutting-edge perspectives.

Suggested topics include, but are not limited to:

- Journalism and alternate media languages in linguistic and cultural studies
- Literary adaptation on media platforms
- Comparative English studies in socio-cultural contexts
- Language conservation as a socio-cultural issue
- Literature and its presentation in times of new media
- On-line language YouTube channels vs. Academic language training
- Theoretic dialectics on literary and linguistic media

Proposals for papers in English or Mandarin Chinese are accepted. Proposals for panels are also welcome. Please email proposals as MS Word (.docx) attachments before April 7, 2023. Proposals should be accompanied by an abstract (300 words) and a separate cover sheet including the presenter's education and employment history, current institutional affiliation, brief list of representative works, and email address. Please avoid reference to personal information in your abstract in order to facilitate our blind review. Abstracts and full manuscripts should follow APA or MLA style as set out in their most recent editions. Please send your email to:dteng@mail.shu.edu.tw
